

Wynand Louw

Dr Wynand Louw is a member of the International Committee for Weights and Measures (CIPM) since 2013 and CIPM President since 2019.

He was Director of Research and Technology Development at the National Metrology Institute of South Africa (NMISA), including Technical Cooperation and International Metrology Cooperation.

From 2019 to 2023, he was President of the CIPM Consultative Committee for Ionizing Radiation, CCRI.

He graduated from the University of the Free State where he obtained his PhD in physics in 1995.